GC WSCS 11th SESSION QGM

Uniquely adding value to local church ministry

Grace Toh is the Editor of Methodist Message and a member of Kampong Kapur Methodist Church. She is secretly obsessed with patterns, and her favourite plant has leaves parallel to each other.

The Trinity Annual Conference President greeted them as a "mighty throng" (referencing Psalm 68:1, NIV). They minister to persons with visual impairment, at-risk youths, and home-makers re-entering the workforce. Their goal is to add value to the ministry of local churches. Who are they? I caught an inspiring glimpse of their heart for the Church when I joined the vicarious women of the General Conference Women's Society of Christian Service (WSCS) at their Quadrennial General Meeting (QGM) from 26-28 Nov 2016, held at the Renaissance Hotel in Johor Bahru. Through observing their decisions and having heartfelt exchanges with individuals, I began to understand and better appreciate the unique role played by the WSCS in the ministry of the Church.

Firstly, women are already an integral part of church ministry – the Rev James Nagulan, President of Emmanuel Tamil Annual Conference, noted in his greetings that "women play multiple roles as wives, mothers, church leaders etc." in addition to their careers.

It is challenging to manage these multiple roles well, and therefore women need to come alongside and support each other. Then-Bishop (now Bishop Emeritus) Dr Wee Boon Hup shared with the delegates his prayer for them to "share the fellowship of sisters across the conference"; that they would find encouragement through exchanging stories of successes and lessons learnt – what men call "war stories".

Two such "war stories" brought tears to my eyes during the beautifully vulnerable Ministry Night on the second day of the QGM. Mrs Eunice Yeo from Holland Village Methodist Church shared about God's miraculous provision in the setting up of a WSCS chapter there, and how the process led her to build and treasure friendships not only at the local church level, but also at
